AMICABLE ADJUSTMENT.—It was mentioned in the police report in Tuesday's Gazette that a man whose wife had left him because he would not give up his bed to his mother-in-law, who had paid him a visit, had been before the Mayor's Court on complaint of the latter for abusing her. It appeared during the examination that the bed did really belong to the old woman, and had been lent by her to her daughter, and therefore the case was dismissed with directions to an officer to see that the property in dispute was restored to its owner, but when the officer went to execute these directions he found that the tenant wife had returned, and the husband, who is an old man, the wife being a young woman, was so delighted that he willingly forgave her, she promising to do better in future, and so the affair was settled. Previous to recovering his wife the deserted husband had offered $10 reward to any one who would tell him where he could find her.

IN TROUBLE.—On Tuesday Nancy Loudon applied to Justice Padgett for redress against Cornelius Moore, all colored, who had blighted her prospects for happiness in this world and failed and refused to support an infant. Moore was arrested by officer Gray. The parties all appeared, and the Justice, after hearing the statements on oath of each party, concluded to suggest a compromise. All agreed to the suggestion, and three dollars per month for the maintenance of the infant was agreed upon. Scarcely had the first parties cleared the portals of the office, when an old woman, bearing in her arms an infant, aged one month, followed by the daughter and a retinue of witnesses, charging the same Cornelius with divers unspeakable crimes appeared. This array of charges was brought up in consequence of the prospective marriage of Cornelius to a dusky damsel. Cornelius will be arrested again.

Withers, Lieutenant Governor elect.

CITY COUNCIL.

An adjourned joint meeting of the City Council was held last night, for the purpose of further considering the revised laws.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The Board of Aldermen met and immediately proceeded to the chamber of the Common Council and went into joint meeting, after which they adjourned.

JOINT SESSION.

The Common Council did not obtain a quorum last night until long after the hour of meeting. After that hour came to order, Mr. McKenzie in the chair, it was announced that the Aldermen were without a quorum, and soon afterwards President Janney, of the Aldermen, appeared, and said there were but four members of the Board of Aldermen present, and asked whether these members should come in. The Chairman said that as this was a mere conference of the two Boards, and was an adjourned joint meeting he supposed it would be perfectly regular for the four members to take their seats.

No objection was made to this view and the four Aldermen came in. To this number two others were soon afterwards added.

The Chair directed the revisor to read chapter 4, being where the reading stopped the evening previous.

This was objected to on the ground that a report of changes made in order.
Dr. French thought this work would be endless and favored printing the book with an affidavit of the revisor appended as to the faithfulness of the work.

The Revisor then proceeded to state the changes, when it was suggested that this method was waiting time, and after some debate it was ordered that Mr. Carne have thirty minutes to explain what changes had been made.

The Revisor then proceeded, chapter by chapter, to note where changes had been made. Mr. Latham asked a question, and then said he had no right to speak now, but would give the subject "a bit" in the Aldermen when it got there.

When the Revisor completed his explanations,

Dr. Johnson said that upon the turning over of the Code to the committee last June, the committee had paid Mr. Carne $300; but $60 yet remained due on his contract, and some additional work had been done, and it was understood he was to be paid for superintending the printing, revising the proofs, &c. This, it was understood, completed the report of the committee, which, on motion of Mr. Broders, was accepted.

After some discussion as to the method of procedure the joint meeting dissolved.

COMMON COUNCIL.

Immediately upon the close of the joint meeting the Council took up the Code for amendment, and chapter 1, Division of the city; chapter 2, The Common Seal; chapter 3, Bonds of City Officers, were revised, a provision being added to the latter section relative to the City Treasurer's bond, fixing it, this term at $10,000, and for subsequent terms at $20,000.

Mr. Evans introduced a resolution for printing the code ten pages at a time for revision, which was lost.
Chapter 4, Clerks, Auditor of Public Accounts, was then proceeded with, and an amendment agreed to, making the Mayor the custodian of the bond of the Auditor, and the Auditor the custodian of all the other official bonds.

Mr. Evans did not see the use of these amendments. The Chair said such and such an amendment had passed, but it was evident that such a vote did not make it a law. It required nine members to vote for a law before it passed. The Chair said certainly not.

The Revisor (by permission of Council) suggested that the bill could, by unanimous consent, be considered to be upon its second reading, when amendments could be adopted. Nine votes would not be required to adopt amendments. They did not thereby become law, but were inchoate or provisional only until the law passed; then nine votes were needed.
Col. Chas. E. Stuart, Corporation Attorney, was requested by the chairman to give his views. Col. S. said that there was something confusing in consequence of the use of the words "code," "revisions," &c. He had been concerned with his father in his office. There the laws had been gathered together and such changes as had been made since the previous edition of the laws incorporated in it. He suggested same method of procedure.

Mr. Carne—When a bill is upon its second reading in this Council is a vote of nine members necessary to the adoption of an amendment.

Mr. Stuart—Certainly not. The amendments became law only on the final passage, and then nine votes are required by the charter.

Mr. Evans as much in the dark as ever. This was no second reading of a bill. It was a reading over of the laws, for what purpose was not clearly shown.

The reading was proceeded with, and chapter 5, "on streets and alleys" proceeded with as far as the end of the first sub-section, when the hour of tea arrived.

The Chair asked how much of the code had now been read.

The Revisor said he thought about one-fourteenth.

Mr. Rock moved that the Board adjourned until to-night; which was agreed to.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—In the Senate, today, Mr. Hamilton, of Md., introduced a series of resolutions of the Baltimore Board of Trade relative to currency, &c.

Mr. Ferry introduced a resolution directing the Finance Committee to report a law for free banking system based at $800,000 banking capital; providing for the issue of the $14,000,000 reserve as a present relief, and for the withdrawal, first, of the fractional currency, and afterwards of the legal tenders. Mr. F. spoke at length in defence of his proposition. He declared that the panic was not the result of the want of confidence in the integrity or the ability of debtors to pay, but was the result of the insufficient supply of a circulation.

In the House of Representatives the call of States for bills and joint resolutions for reference (the usual Monday morning hour order) occupied the earlier portion of the session. Many hundreds were presented; many were in relation to the currency, many for free banking, many for recognition of Cuban belligerency, some for amending postal laws so as to abolish postage on exchange newspapers, renewing franking privilege, &c.

Barrett, of the Yazo, to the effect that the Virginians had been fitted out as a man-of-war, and that a large force of men were being sent to Havana by American citizens are entirely false. A telegram from Captain Barrett says that everything was quiet on the Cuban coast when the Yazo left.

The Sun says that a private letter has been received in this city showing that the Cubans have partly avenged the murder of the patriots taken on board the Virginian. On the evening of the execution Maximilian Yonaz attacked and captured a number of Spanish fortified camps in the vicinity of Santiago.
